There are many hackers on the internet who try to defraud people on social media by infiltrating platforms and algorithms. I don't even count the free stuff. I have endless respect for white hats and the world of Infosec.

They taught me a lot, but hacking is a profession that requires creativity and talent. Especially in the cryptocurrency community. Many people or projects are sent to phishing e-mails.

I found such a profile on the X platform for 2 months and the guys are sharing a nice Malware source code and papers.

I'm trying to influence the admins by giving them weird ideas by posting weird and funny memes under their posts (blah bla bla).

It would be useful to share this profile with you. Most software developers write a lot of code and go under a single lack of willpower. Therefore, it is useful to follow them or their Infosec friends they work with can follow this profile.

I can say that your guys' mission is really great, they even got the idea for the Yugioh card from me.

In fact, regular users should start following them so that their awareness about cyber security will increase. They are doing a really great job
